LATEST NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

By the arrival last evening of the ship Hector, capt. Gillender, we have received from our correspondents, London papers and Lloyd's Lists to the 26th January. We are also indebted to obliging friends in this city for Liverpool papers to the 26th inclusive; and for a commercial letter of the latest date.

[Commercial Adv.

It is stated in our papers, that the bodily health of the king remains unimpaired, except by the natural infirmity of old age. The stories that he had been injuried by a fall, and that his apartment is in a dangerous state of decay, are both contradicted in an article under the Windsor head. It was agreed in Parliament on the 25th, that the immediate care of his Majesty should be intrusted to the duke of York.

A new work has been recently published by Count Las Casas in Germany with the hope of persuading the British government to remove Bonaparte from St. Helena to some station in England or North America.

The season, it appears, has been as remarkable for its mildness in the north of Europe, as in England, France, and the U. States—In Sweden and Norway, there had been neither Snow nor ice so late as the 1st Jan. and shrubs, in some places, were in leaf and blossom at that date.

A letter from Irun, dated Jan. 7th, describes the grief of Ferdinand, at the sudden loss of his consort, as excessive.

The Gazette of Berlin officially contradicts the rumors of contemplated changes of territory on the part of Prussia.

The British government have determined on fitting out two ships for a voyage of discovery to the North West. They are to sail early in the spring, under the command of Lieut. Perry.

Severe Gales were experienced on the English coast the latter end of January.—Lloyd's List of the 26th Jan. is filled with accounts of disasters among the shipping. Many lives have been lost.

The Liverpool Courier of Jan. 25, speaking of the mildness of the winter, observes that, "Last week an apple was gathered from a tree in an orchard belonging to J. Wilson, Esq. of Heyroyd-house."

London Corn Exchange, January 25.—The supply of English wheat being but moderate this morning, fine runs from Essex, Kent and Suffolk sold rather freely at the prices of this day week—but there was little or no demand for any other description.

Wheat, Kent and Essex, old 72 a 78s; Suffolk do do—Norfolk 70 a 74—Rye 50 a 54; Barley 62 a 68; flour 60 a 65; rapeseed 44 a 49 pound per last. Wheat, Dantzic, 70 a 72s; Hambro or Bremen, 66 a 72. —

Extract of a letter dated Liverpool 23d January 1819.

We do not think we ever recollect the cotton market so dull as it has lately been especially in American cottons, which for a time have been almost unsaleable, although continually offered at lower prices. There has been a great want of confidence in the market, resulting very naturally from a comparison of our present very heavy stock with what has been at former periods, as well from the anticipation of continued supplies, very far beyond our wants, and of course adding to the accumulation of stock.

Upland cottons of the new crop we quote 16 3-4 a 17 3-4d—and they are offering of good quality at 17 1-2d without finding buyers. Nominally we quote the following prices:

	Upland	N. Orleans.
Ordinary	16d	16d per lb.
Middling fair	16 1-2	17
Fair	16 1-2	17 1-2
Good fair	17 1-4	18
Good	17 1-2	17

Tennessee 15d a 1 3-4—Sea Island 2 9 a 3; Surat, ordinary to fair, 8 a 10 1-2; do good fair to good 11d a 1s 1d; Bengal, very ordinary to middling 6 a 7 1-4; do fair to good 8 a 8 3-4; do very good, 9 1-4 a 9 1-2.

The arrivals of cotton from Charleston and Savannah are considerable, and prices do not appear to have fallen so low as to dispose the dealers to purchase freely.

Spanish dollars about 4s 9d each.

We beg your reference to the annexed general remarks, and are, respectfully, your obedient servants,

THOS. & JOHN D. THORNLEY.

GENERAL REMARKS.

The total import of Cotton into Great Britain in each of the last ten years, was nearly as follows:

In 1809,	440,380	In 1814,	287,500
1810,	561,170	1815,	369,000
In 1811,	328,230	1816,	370,000
1812,	261,200	1817,	478,733
1813,	249,530	1818,	666,875

The import in the last two years, consisted of—

	1817.	1818.
American Cottons	197,474	205,944
East-India . .	117,955	246,719
Brazils . .	114,526	161,350
West-India & others	48,778	52,862
	478,733	666,875

Making an increase of 188,142 bales, of which, it will be observed, that not less than 128,764 bales were East India. The increase in the import of East India Cottons, is a most remarkable circumstance,—the import having been in 18 , 346,719 bales; in 1817, 117,955 do. whereas the average import of the thirteen preceding years, was only 18,243 bales per annum.

The stock held in the different ports, at the end of 1817 and 1818, was computed as follows—

	1817.	1818.
East-India	51,385	165,260
Upland Georgia	12,500	30,000
Orleans & Tennessee	4,580	14,850
Sea Island	3,710	4,900
Brazils	33,985	63,000
West India &c.	5,895	19,396
	112,056	297,456

Making an increase of stock of 185,361 bales, which, it will be observed, is very nearly the excess of import in 1818 beyond that of 1817; thus showing the consumption of the two years to be very nearly equal although it is generally thought that in the last year there was an increase of consumption of about 150 bales per week. American cottons during the last year were held up at such high prices (from the strong desire of the holders to diminish the loss occasioned by the extravagant costs in the States) that their consumption is supposed to have been diminished from 15 to 20,000 bags, while the East-India cottons have been so generally pressed upon the market and the prices so much reduced, as to offer a very strong temptation to the spinners to adapt their machinery to the use of them; and in fact, from various circumstances, the consumption is encreased at least 20,000 bales, and is now estimated at nearly 100,000 bales per annum.—The total consumption of cotton is estimated at about 8,000 bales per week, and we think it is evidently on the increase, for a great number of spinning mills are erecting, many old ones are enlarging, and the spinners are carrying on a profitable trade, and are enabled to make contracts for the sale of all the Twist they can supply for a considerable time to come. Increasing, however, as may be the consumption of Cotton, it is certain the increase in importation very far exceeds it, so that we see no other result than that prices will fall materially, and be permanently lower.

January 28.

Since this circular was printed there has been a farther decline in our Cotton Market, and good Uplands may be bought at 16½d. We may add that produce in general meets a dull, very dull, sale; and money is very scarce. —

Extract of a letter from Liverpool, dated—January 23, 1819.

The import of Ashes into this port has been from the 1818.	1817.

Canada	7,682	12,288
Iceland	265	842
Baltic	1,477	622
	21,288	26,635

Shewing a decrease in our imports, the last year, of 5,347 barrels. The imports into other parts of Great Britain are 1,255 barrels more than in 1817; the decrease of imports, therefore is 3,992 barrels. The stock of American Pot Ashes in Liverpool, on the 1st inst. were 600 barrels, viz: 3700 Montreal and 3,300 United States. The stock of Pearl 1600 barrels being 1000 barrels less of each description and both rate 3s a 5s per cwt. lower at the same period last year.

While our stock in Liverpool is 5000 casks, being 1100 more than last year; prices rule 1s. a 2s. per cent lower.

The import of American Rice into this country has decreased, in consequence of more than usual having been directed to the continent. The import into Liverpool, excluding Brazil and East-India, in the last year has been 5340 in 1817.—

The total import into Great Britain has been 22,490 tons, against 13,300 in 1817, giving an increase of import, principally of East-India, of 10,200 tons. The consumption of Rice in this country falls principally on East-India, in consequence of being admitted free of duty, while a duty is imposed on that of other countries, of 20 1-4s per cwt. The future currency of this article, during the present general abundance and cheapness of grain, must be very precarious, depending as it does on the events of the continent and the uncertain extent of future supplies from India.

The import of foreign Wheat into the Kingdom has been greater than in any former year. Of our present stock of 90,000 barrels of American Flour, three fourths are sour. The imports last year into this port have been 350,000 barrels, while in 1817, they were 540,000. From the inconvenience caused by the fluctuation in prices from the sudden inundations of foreign grain, little doubt is entertained but our present corn laws will undergo an early revision, and the maximum be fixed at a higher rate, or a duty imposed on imports.

The prices of flaxseed, at all times very precarious, depend almost entirely on the extent of supplies from the United States, and the wants of Ireland. Flax is now at a price which pays the farmers well; a good demand for sowing is consequently looked for in the spring.—Shipments should be made early.—The quantity, exclusive of home saved seed, usually sown in Ireland is 52,000 hhds. In 1817, there were sown 32,878; and in 1818, 47,605. The season last year was fine, and rather more home saved seed than in 1817; their imports were 50,246 hhds.; of which 32,230 were American; 5472 Russia; 11,119 Dutch, and 896 British; of which were branded sound 49,171

	55,876
Sown in Ireland in 1818	47,607
Leaving their stock 5th July, 1818,	8,269

Of which probably 5 or 6000 will remain over until the ensewing season, fit for sowing.

Our imports of tar have been 67,142 barrels, against 17,856 in 1817; but the consumption, has been very great, so that our present stock is but 25,000 bbls. against 17,000, at the close of 1817. The general import in other ports of Great Britain has been by no means commensurate with ours, being little more than 100,000.

The imports of turpentine have greatly increased, being 49,750 bbls. and casks to this port, against 34,000 in 1817. The remaining general imports have been 61,643 casks against 37,000 in 1817. The stocks are also greater, being here 12,000 bbls. against 5000 at the same period last year.

Contrary to all former calculations, and informations from every quarter of the U. S. respecting the quantity of Tobacco that would be exported in 1818, they have been remarkably great. It has now gained general credit, that, in the year ending on the 1st Oct. last, the exports have been 80 a 83,000 hogsheads.

To meet the consumption of Europe, which may be fairly estimated at 68 a 70,000 hhds. annually of U. S. tobacco.

Instead, therefore, of the exports of 1818, being according to the general expectation, about the same as in 1817, when they were only 63,000 hhds. to 1st Oct. of which 57,000 came to Europe, and were inadequate to the consumption by 10 to 13,000 hhds. a material surplus is given, admitting the crops of Va. Md. and Georgia to have failed by 12,000 hhds. or more, as has been estimated the supplies would still be more than sufficient; but it is now believed that the excess of the western crops will be fully adequate to make up for their deficiency. The public opinion in Europe, which was founded on the best information that could be procured, is therfore now completely changed.

ALEXANDRIA:
TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1819.

Of all the practices for which the malevolence of bad men has procured the sanction of custom, that of duelling, particularly as it is managed amongst us in this country, is the most offensive to the moral sense, the most audaciously insulting to society, the most retrograde to nature, the most daring to God and subversive of his laws—in a word the most wicked violation of all laws human and divine, and at the same time the most disgraceful to the understanding, as combining in itself the greatest degree of stupidity swelled forth by the vanity of modern refinement, into bloated relief from the dark and baleful ground of gothic ignorance and barbarism. With not one plausible claim on admiration, and every thing that can excite contempt and disgust, it has been enabled by the help of pride and rancour, to tyrannise itself into custom, and to intrench itself securely against every effort made by wisdom and virtue and religion to curb its outroges, or even to prescribe bounds of any kind to its excesses. Its damned spirit refuses to be exorcised by any of those awful processess to which all other kinds of human guilt have hitherto generally held themselves amenable. Neither fear of punishment, nor sympathy for the sufferings of others, nor consideration for the miseries—the utter ruin one single act of it may occasion, avails to stop the hand of the murderer—but unappalled by the least sense of remorse, uncontrouled by honor, honesty or virtue, the fell and deliberate duellist proceeds, on the suggestions of his own wayward vanity and vindictiveness, to take the life of a fellow being, and in doing so, to destroy, perhaps, the peace of families—to kill the hopes of a wife that but a minute before was exulting, and breathing forth the incense of gratitude to her bounteous creator for the worldly comforts he had afforded her and her offspring, to plunge her perhaps into insanity, and all of them into distresses which can find no termination but in the grave.

When an abominable spirit of this kind rages at large under the incitement of popular error, advice is fruitless; the authority of the church is ineffectual—the declamation of the pulpit is no more regarded than the whistling of the wind;—since those who disregard the injuctions of holy writ, will be little likely to yield to the expostulations of its humble interpreter; and human ingenuity exerts itself in vain to devise modes of prevention, without recurring to measures which will tend to fill up the measure, even to running over, of human shame and misery. Yet the spirit ought to be encountered—speedily too—and that by a spirit somewhat resembling itself. As furies with their fire brands ravage the earth, and make war upon the peace of society, let other furies be invoked to subdue them. In Great-Britain, some time ago, the execution, on a gallows, of a gentleman of respectable connections and rank in the army, did more to put down the practice of duelling than all the volumes that had ever before been written, and all the homilies that had ever before been preached against it. For the crime of suicide, the laws assigned, as a preventative, the disgrace of dragging the corpse of the offender naked through the street—and this sentence, I am told, was actually executed some years ago at Hartford, in Connecticut. Antient history informs us that at one period, when the crime of suicide became frequent beyond all former example, the legislature passed a law that the bodies of all who died in that way should be publickly exposed naked in the streets, and that it had the desired effect. In like manner the crime of duelling might possibly be prevented, or at least its ravages diminished by annexing to the commission of it some posthumous disgrace; the cure might be taken from the same source as the disease—and the same vanity and false sense of shame which urged a vicious fool to revenge, deter him from committing a murder that would brand him, though dead, with indelible infamy. Were duellists hung in chains like other murderers, there would be few duels.

In my opinion, however, those who have argued against the practice of duelling, have failed of being as successful as they might, by not selecting those topics which a profound knowledge of the human heart would direct them to as most likely to come to that particular kind of selfishness of heart, and perversion of judgment, to which the crime owes its existence. There is not one of the herd, however inveloped in barbarism and ignorance, or corrupted by pride and irreligion, who does not well enough know the general tenor of the moral, the religious and the legal dissuasives that have long subsisted against it. Other ground, therefore, ought to be taken, particularly as it is a melancholy truth, that there are many young men, and, I fear, many who have long had the bloom of the plumb rubbed by the fingers of time from their cheeks—who plume themselves upon their courage in bidding defiance to the laws of God—and think that a fearless impiety helps to thicken the laurels they may crop by a brilliant act of murder. To turn from an act because it is likely to incur the wrath of heaven, would, to such wicked fools as these, appear disreputable, because implying fear and submission; and thus, the whole of their vice arising from a fear of being thought susceptible of fear, they would rather incur fresh penalties than acknowledge themselves capable of shrinking.—The fact is, that their extravagant notions on this subject arise from an absurd and mistaken estimate of the value of courage. Their reasoning is founded on an idea that bravery is a very rare commodity—and that if they do not give some strong practical proof of their possessing a share of it, they will be suspected of being deficient.—By showing them that they are wrong in the outset, a considerable step would be gained towards preparing them for the reception of still stronger and more convincing arguments; and indeed I think it could not fail to awaken them from their black and bloody phantasms, to inform them that when any man goes the length of risking his life, or murdering his fellow creature, to establish his courage (which, if he remains quiet, no rational man will call in question, or perhaps think of), it is fair to infer that he either doubts it himself, or has some inward motive for suspecting that it is doubted by others.

Fredericksburg, March 27.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

A number of Counterfeit Five Dollar notes, purporting to be of the "Bank of Virginia," and made to resemble the late emissions, are in circulation among us.—The general appearance both of the paper and the engraving, has a strong resemblance to the genuine note, and may well deceive superficial observers—but upon a close inspection, the engraving will be found very defective. The vignette, in particular, at the top of the note, is very coarse, and in the words "BANK OF VIRGINIA," in the body of the note, in large open Roman capitals, some letters are larger than others. The words Directors and Bearer are also very irregular. The names of the President and Cashier, are very well imitated—but on a close examination it will be perceived that they were written with a tremulous hand, which is not the case in the genuine notes.

The Editor had lately a ten dollar note of a similar description offered him in payment. It behoves all persons, at all times; to be on their guard against fraud—and those in particular, who are not well acquainted with Bank notes, should be careful what sort of notes they receive, and (☞ who they receive them from.

MARCH 20, 1819.

The council proceeded to reconsider the laws returned by the mayor.

A motion was made to adhere to the bill entitled "an act to repeal an act to establish a vaccine institution in the town of Alexandria," and the question being taken on the same, it was decided in the affirmative.

"The act to repeal an act to authorise the payment of the salary of the superintendant of pumps," was laid on the table for further consideration.

The council resumed the consideration of "the act making provisions for the debt of the corporation of Alexandria," which was read a first and second time and laid on the table.

Resolved, That Messrs. J. C. Vowell, Neale, Bryan and Rhodes be a committee to enquire into the present state of the pumps of the town, into the existing contract with the pump maker, and the expediency of making further provision by law for keeping the pumps in order.

Ordered, That Messrs. Keith, Neale, Ramsay and Rhodes be a committee to enquire into the circumstances relating to the renting of the fish wharf, alluded to in the communication received from the mayor.

Thomas Jacobs was unanimously elected a trustee of the poor house in the place of Anthony Crease, resigned.

James Lawrason was elected an assessor in the place of John T. Brooks, resigned.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or
